

Why Rent Reusable Dry Containers?

- Is your business in the automotive or general manufacturing markets?
- Do you spend too much money on bulk product storage and shipping?
- Do you have an upcoming bank build, plant closure or temporary need?
- Are you in need of short-term, seasonal or long-term component storage?
- Do you frequently ship your products from one location to another?

If you answered yes to ANY of the questions above, CAPS wants to show you a more effective and efficient way to ship and store your products. Instead of purchasing cardboard boxes, we encourage you to use reusable shipping containers.

On average, customers who switch from cardboard containers to CAPS' reusable dry containers save about 25% in storage and shipping fees. To completely understand how returnable containers can benefit your business, please check out our list below of the top seven reasons to rent dry material containers.

Top Seven Reasons to Rent Dry Material Reusable Shipping Containers

- 1. Save money. You can rent CAPS' 48x45x34 dry rental containers for cents per day! Simply pay a one-time issue fee and a minimal daily fee to rent the containers for any timeframe between 30 days and five years. You only pay for what you use, and don't have to pay any disposal or removal fees. Once you're finished simply ship the reusable dry material containers back to us, and we'll take care of the rest.
- 2. Green your supply chain. Because they are reusable, CAPS' dry rental containers are good for the environment. They drastically cut down on the amount of waste your business produces and help to effectively green your supply chain.
- 3. Protect your products. Traditional cardboard boxes are prone to damage, and using them puts your products at risk. However, reusable dry material containers are built stronger to keep your products safe even in strenuous transportation conditions.
- 4. Save space and keep your storage facility clean. CAPS' dry rental containers have a unique interlocking design that provides superior stackability, saving you significant amounts of precious floor space. Also, because they're made of plastic and have a pallet built into the base, you don't have to worry about corrugated dust or wood pallet contamination.
- 5. Get more for your money. Reusable dry containers can hold more weight than cardboard, allowing you to fit more product in each container.
- 6. Cut down on assembly time. Our reusable shipping containers have a simple interlocking design that makes them easy to set up and fill. In addition, each container has a built-in pallet, so you don't have to worry about purchasing that piece separately or assembling it yourself.
- 7. Ship it and forget it. When you rent dry material containers with CAPS, you have access to our proprietary CAPS-TRAC™ container tracking solution. Once you've packed, scanned and shipped your dry rental containers, you can easily track them at any point throughout the supply chain from any Internet-accessible computer.
